Even just to write a simple resignation letter, you should take it with formality as the same way you wrote your resume to get the position. Your resignation letter format has to include these 4 components: 1. SALUTATIONS: Write the resignation letter on your own letterhead and not on the letterhead of your employer. Write also the date, followed by the title and name of the supervisor as well as your employer's full address. If you're going to submit your letter to a higher level manager that you are not on a first name basis with, you should use his or her full name with address (Mr., Mrs., Ms., etc.). If you've had a close working relationship with the person you're giving your letter of resignation to, you can skip using Mr. or Ms. Your resignation letter sample will be in the employee file right after you leave. You have to ensure that you keep your resignation letter clean, professional, and positive. 2. STATEMENT OF OFFICIAL RESIGNATION: Be honest and straightforward about your intentions. You don't have to delay advising your boss that you're going to quit. State the exact date that you are planning to leave, you have to remember that for most job contracts, you have to give your employer at least 2 weeks' notice in advance. 3. THE REASON FOR LEAVING: It depends on what you want to put in your resignation letter. If you're going to leave for extremely personal reasons, it's up to you if you want to keep in private, but don't have to vague about your statements. 4. EXPRESSING YOUR GRATITUDE: At the last part of the letter, before you put in your closing signature, is where you have to repeat your positive approaches and goodwill to the company. Even though your experience with the company has not been very good, always try to think of something good to say. Sending them an email or simply leaving your renunciation letter on your desk is very unprofessional. You have to be brave and show respect. 2. Always leave a constructive critique if necessary, but keep the facts and make it relevant to the reason why it will come out. 3. Prepare: your boss can ask you to reconsider and offer you a bigger salary or even promote yourself, you know how your answers should be! 4. Coopere. Always leave your colleagues in the roll à € "present your work correctly with clarifications about how you do things and if there are something you have to know. 5. Select the people you would like to obtain a work reference in a precautionary way and do you think it is appropriate for your next position. No 1. Present your renunciation letter when angry. 2. Concentrate, only at the negative points throughout your work. 3. Sinta as if you need to provide reasons for your resignation if you want to keep it yourself. 4. refuse to work during the notification permit. If you are in your employment contract, then you are legally required. 5. Follow straight on Facebook or Twitter and start publishing negative things about your work.
